

THE WORLDS NEXT GREATEST BOOK

1. Where is Barry's favourite place?
2. Do you know what a bookworm is? Explain in your own words.
3. What do you think Barry likes most about reading?
4. What problem did Barry face at the public library that day?
5. What was special about the book Barry found?
6. Barry started writing a wonderful story. What was it about?
7. Why do you think Barry's story was so good?
8. Some of the best authors are people who love to read. Why do you think reading lots of books helps someone become a great writer?
9. Barry became a fantastic author, even though he never thought of writing a book before. The book gave him the idea to become an author. Why is it important to encourage others to explore their talents?
10. Do you know someone who you think would be good at something? Who is it and what do you think they would be good at?
11. How will you encourage them to try it?
12. Write a short story of your own. Be as imaginative as you want! Your story can be about anything you like. Try your best—who knows, you may have the world's next greatest book in your hands.

I would love to read your stories!

If you would like us to feature your story and celebrate you, please do send a picture of it to changetheworld@karyn.uk
Don't forget to include your name and age!
